1. The emergency subterranean headquarters of the Hungarian Government is located on the banks of Lake Hamor, about 200 m. northeast of Hotel Palota. The mound of limestone and trachyte that rises above the shelter is about 65 m. high.
2. The bunker-shelter has three entrances, which are interconnected by a series of stairs. There are two floors. The ground floor is divided into rooms which contain machinery that provide the installation with air, water, and light.
3. A shaft, about 50 meters deep, provides a supply of air. The opening for this shaft is hidden among trees and bushes and can be hermetically sealed in case of an emergency, i.e., a gas attack. The entrance gates are built of bomb-proof steel slabs, and also close hermetically.
4. The second floor contains offices, living quarters, and conference rooms; all these are equipped with modern conveniences.
5. The shelter, the hotel Palota, and the eight houses in the vicinity are occupied at the present by about 400 Russians, high-ranking officers as well as civilians.
